Fighting In Vietnam Is Lowest In A Year

SAIGON (AP) — The U. S. Command reported today that fighting in Vietnam had slackened to its lowest level this year with only scattered ground skirmishes and relatively few air strikes against North Vietnam.

Despite the lull, losses were sustained in small fights and a Navy Crusader jet was lost to ground fire over the Communist North. The pilot parachuted and was picked up in the Tonkin Gulf only 18 minutes after he splashed down. It was the 573rd U.S. combat plane reported lost in North Vietnam.

Officers denied that the lull in the war was due in any way to the fighting in the Middle East, but it appeared that neither side viewed this as a propitious moment for any dramatic moves.

Raid Railroads

American warplanes penetrated into the heavily fortified heartland of North Vietnam again Tuesday, raiding rail lines leading from Hanoi to Red China. Only 88 missions were flown, compared with about 125 on recent normal days.

The U.S. Command reported that not since the first of the year had there been a comparable lull in the ground war. For the past four days the U.S. military communicate has said, "No significant contact with the enemy was reported."

U.S. officers volunteered no reason for the lapse in significant ground fighting. They said, however, that intelligence indicated the Communist forces have evidently been girding for battle in three areas — the demilitarized zone between North and South Vietnam, the central highlands and the Mekong Delta south of Saigon.

Shell Shore Areas

Light contacts were reported in all three areas Tuesday, but there was no developing pattern.

Along the demilitarized zone, the cruiser Boston shelled Communist storage areas and then moved south to catch an evident strong Red attempt to move supplies across the Ben Hai River, which bisects the zone. The cruiser reported wrecking havoc among a fleet of 25 sampans crossing the river.

In the air war, U.S. headquarters reported jets again plastered three rail lines leading north from Hanoi to the northwest up the Red River delta, one to the northeast and one short spur running 40 miles north into the Thai Nguyen industrial complex.

There was no report of any dogfights with Communist MIGs, although raids into this area nearly always bring the Red jets into the sky.

Macomb Win Gives Two Vote Margin To GOP

MOUNT CLEMENS (AP) — For the second time in two weeks, a Republican has swept his way to a seat in the Michigan House, riding the crest of Gov. George Romney's popularity.

David Serotkin Tuesday swamped Democrat Victor Stech, by an unofficial 5,879 to 4,635 votes in their race to represent the state's 75th legislative district at Mount Clemens.

The victory gave Republicans a 56-54 margin in the House, considerably enhancing Romney's chances of pushing through a controversial state tax reform program.

Romney Victory

Romney's ability to swing fiscal reform through the Michigan Legislature is considered a prime factor in party selection of a presidential candidate next year.

A Republican loss would have created a 55-55 deadlock in the Michigan House of Representatives, giving the Democrats room to maneuver on a Senate-approved tax program which is before the House.

A jubilant Serotkin hailed Romney as the architect of his success.

"I'm deeply grateful to the governor for his vigorous campaigning on my behalf," he said, claiming victory well before all the returns were in.

"He went from door to door with me last Saturday. He allowed my organization to send campaign leaflets over his signature. He even taped a phone message for me."

Supports Tax Plan

"I support Romney's tax reform program, and I'll probably vote for it," Serotkin said.

He said Romney contributed both to the 1,224-vote margin of victory and the size of the voter turnout.

Some 35 per cent of the district's 30,000 voters marched to the polls.

Stech denied that Romney's hand turned the election.

"Democrats just don't vote in special elections," he stated.

Two weeks ago, Republican Anthony J. Licata broke a 54-54 split in the House by defeating young James P. Hoffa, son of the imprisoned Teamsters Union president, in their fight for Detroit's 19th District seat.

Flint Workers Sue On Budget

FLINT (AP) — A union representing 1,600 city employees asked Tuesday for a Circuit Court order restraining the Flint City Commission from adopting its proposed 1967-68 budget.

Council 29 of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees charged that the commission accepted a salary recommendation from City Manager Thomas Kay while bargaining was under way on wages.

The commission's action amounted to a failure to bargain as agreed and a violation of state law requiring bargaining in good faith, the union charged.

The union, whose members include policemen and firemen, is demanding a wage boost of 29 cents hourly for one year. The city has offered 14 cents, the amount the union asserts was approved in the tentative budget.

Teacher Starts Memorial Flight On Earhart Route

ANN ARBOR (AP) — An ex-schoolteacher who hopes to solve the mystery of Amelia Earhart's disappearance headed today for California — stopping off point on an around-the-world flight duplicating the missing flier's route.

Mrs. Ann Pellegrino, 30, of Saline, and her three-member crew took off from Willow Run Airport in the midst of a lightning and thunderstorm while a crowd, including relatives, cheered.

Mrs. Pellegrino, who bears a startling resemblance to Miss Earhart, is piloting a Lockheed Model 10 Electra on the five-week journey of some 28,000 miles. This is the same model craft in which Miss Earhart disappeared over the Pacific 30 years ago.

Windsors End Family Rift

LONDON (AP) — The Duke and Duchess of Windsor took part in a public show of harmony today with other members of the British royal family. A London crowd cheered and applauded.

The little scene was played a few moments after the former King Edward VIII had seen his niece, reigning Queen Elizabeth II, unveil a memorial to his mother.

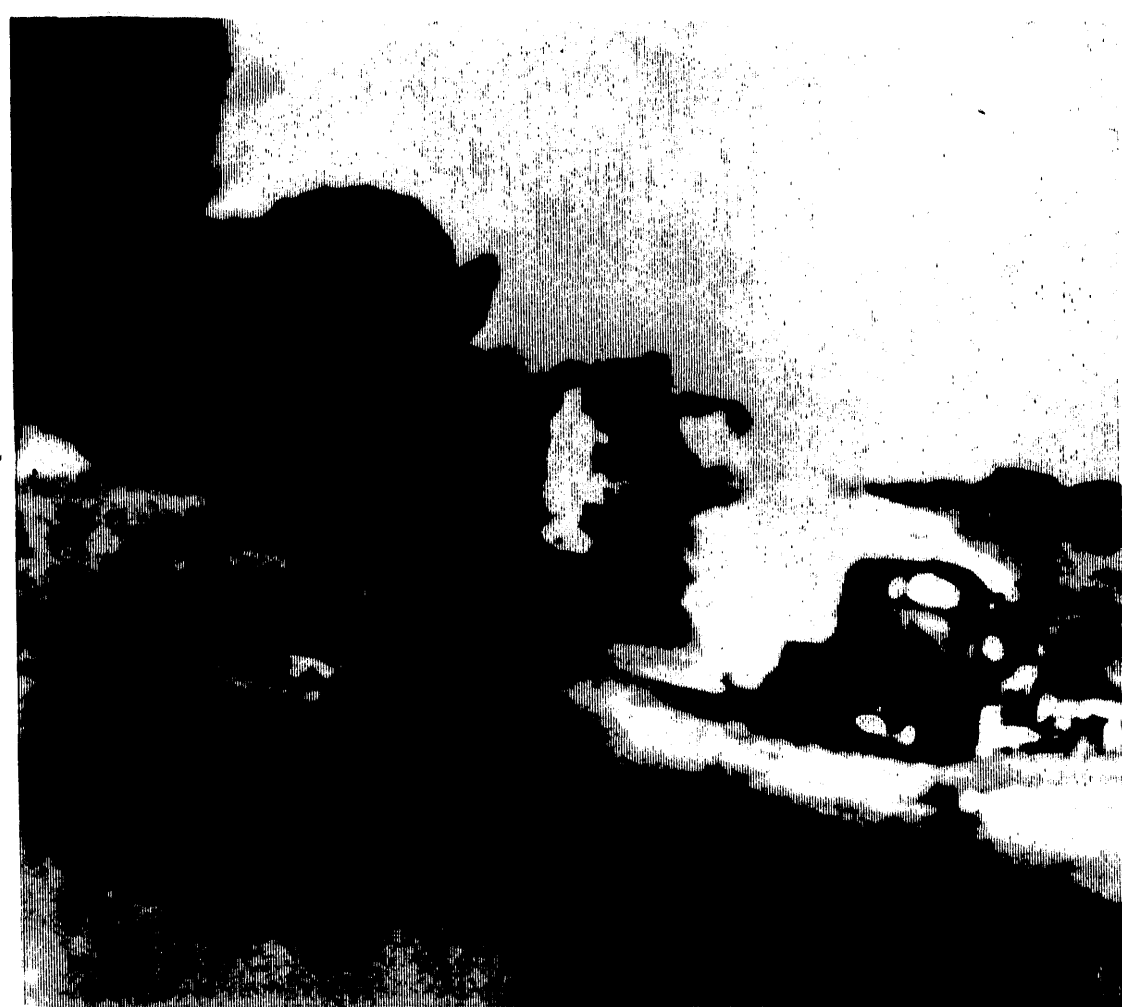

As the two-minute ceremony ended the queen walked over to the former Wallis Warfield Simpson, who 30 years ago had cost a king his throne.

Smiling broadly, they chatted together with the duke. After the monarch and her husband, Prince Philip, drove away, Queen Mother Elizabeth, widow of King George VI, came to chat with the Windsors.

The crowd cheered again when, as she was going, the duke leaned forward and kissed the queen mother, his sister-in-law, on the cheek.

The duke and duchess were applauded as they drove off to make preparations for returning to their Paris home.

The memorial ceremony was a nostalgic occasion for those who recalled King Edward's abdication in 1936. It brought about the first official visit to England, by palace invitation, for the duke and the American wife for whom he gave up the throne. It was the first public ceremony ever attended in England by the duchess with members of the royal family.

Israel Conditions OK On Cease-Fire

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. — (AP) — The U. N. Security Council today awaited formal responses from Israel and the Arab nations to its unanimous call for an immediate cease-fire issued after a sudden Soviet diplomatic retreat.

Israel immediately gave conditional acceptance to the cease-fire, and U.N. Secretary-General U Thant sent cables to all the belligerent governments seeking confirmation of the Israeli position and acceptance from the Arab nations.

Cairo Radio declared, however, that the Arab countries are determined to continue the war despite the council's truce call.

The Arab response was complicated by the stiff conditions Israel set. But their replies were expected soon because the war news showed them losing, and Cairo and Amman broadcast announcements of the council's resolution. Diplomatic sources in Washington said Jordan had asked the United States to arrange a cease-fire.

After 40 Hours

The council adopted the resolution by vote of all its 15 members Tuesday night about 40 hours after the outbreak of fighting.

The resolution called on "the governments concerned as a first step to take forthwith all measures for an immediate cease-fire and for cessation of all military activities in the area."

Russia Votes Yes

A deadlock in the council was broken after two days of private consultations when Soviet Ambassador Nikolai T. Fedorenko dropped his insistence that the resolution call for withdrawal of the fighting forces to their pre-war positions and agreed with U.S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg that it should seek only a cease-fire.

Fedorenko, blaming Israel for the war, told the council the cease-fire resolution was the least it could do at present but was only a first step. He said his government wants immediate withdrawal of "the forces of the aggressor" — meaning Israel — behind the 1949 armistice lines and "the council must take an immediate decision" for such withdrawal.

Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban said "Israel welcomes the appeal for a cease-fire as formulated in this resolution." But he said its implementation "depends on an absolute and sincere acceptance and cooperation of the other parties," which he said had yet to clarify their intention.

Must Accept Israel

Eban said "the situation to be constructed after the cease-fire must depend upon the acceptance of Israel's statehood" by the Arab countries, "peaceful settlement of disputes" and, from outside powers, "a balanced distribution of their friendship among the states of the Middle East."

Arabs Say: Sellout!

Eban served notice that Israel would not tolerate Egypt's blockade of her shipping from the Red Sea through the Gulf of Aqaba, announced last month after Egyptian troops replaced U.N. troops alongside the canal.

Israel, he declared, "cannot be expected to return to a dwarf stature with our face on the Mediterranean alone."

Neither Egyptian Ambassador Mohamed Awad El-Kony nor Jordanian Ambassador Muhammad El-Farra spoke.

Syrian Ambassador George Tomeh expressed "strong opposition" to Israel's making any gains under the resolution from a fait accompli, and Iraqi Foreign Minister Adnan Pachachi termed the cease-fire resolution "a complete surrender to Israel."

Robert Graham, who died in 1926, left a trust providing for his niece for her lifetime. The will further provided that if she died without issue, the fund was to go to the Evangelical Home and Hospital of the Salvation Army.

An adopted son of the niece, Robert Veneklasen, contested the bequest to the Salvation Army.

The State Supreme Court upheld a Kent County Circuit Court decision that the estate should go to the Salvation Army.

After Graham died, the court noted, the Legislature provided that the term "issue" should also mean adopted child.

"It was not competent for the Legislature to change his will in that respect by statutory amendment adopted after his death," the high court ruled.

The mishap was one of four drownings Tuesday in Michigan.

The empty, 15-foot outboard motor boat churned in a circle through Ford Lake near Ypsilanti, closing in on the man swimming toward shore.

Then it struck Floyd Scott, 38, of Detroit, who moments before had been patched into the water when the motor raced out of control while he was working on it.

U.N. Asks Truce; Russia Demands Immediate Action

BULLETIN

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — The Soviet Union asked the U. N. Security Council to set a deadline of 4 p. m. EDT today for Israel and the Arab countries to cease fighting.

By The Associated Press

Israeli tanks racing across Egypt reported today they had smashed to within 20 miles of the Suez Canal. Far to the north Israel's forces captured Old Jerusalem from the Jordanians and a few hours later Jordan announced it was ready to negotiate a cease-fire.

An Israeli army spokesman in Tel Aviv said an armored column bearing along Egypt's coast had overrun Rumana in an advance of more than 100 miles since the drive began two days ago. This not only put the Israelis 20 miles from the Suez Canal but they were in a position to move on Port Said, at the head of the canal 30 miles to the northwest.

Jordan's government in Amman reported the decision to seek a cease-fire with Israel was made after consultation with the Arab joint command, which Egypt heads. Syria and Egypt maintained they would continue the fight.

Tuesday night the U. N. Security Council unanimously requested that all parties cease fire. It made no stipulations on disposition of territory that has changed hands this week. Israel told the council that Gamal Abdel Nasser's threat to annihilate Israel "now lies in ruins," and that Israel has passed "from serious danger to successful resistance."

Egyptians Retreat

Cairo admitted today that its troops had fallen back before the Israeli drive toward the canal, but there was no indication of the extent of the withdrawal.

Israeli forces, apparently running roughshod over the Egyptian army, announced today the capture of the strategic Sharm el Sheikh heights overlooking the entrance to the Gulf of Aqaba — in effect breaking Gamal Abdel Nasser's blockade.

They reported also an advance to a point 20 miles from the Suez Canal.

On the northern front, Jordan sought a cease-fire as an echo to the Israelis' capture of Old Jerusalem.

The twin Israeli advances in Egypt placed their armies almost at the identical points they won during the 1956 war with Egypt.

125 Mile Drive

Egyptian occupation of Sharm el Sheikh was the flash-point of this war, now in its third day. At the head of the Gulf of Aqaba lies Elath.

To reach Sharm el Sheikh, Israeli forces had to race more than 125 miles down the Sinai Peninsula.

Cairo radio reported an announcement by the Egyptian High Command that forces at Sharm el Sheikh "have rejoined our main forces in the defensive positions in Sinai."

Israel's radio said two tank columns were racing toward the canal along two paved highways — the main road through the Sinai Desert and Egypt's coastal road farther north.

Israel claimed to have captured Jabel Levi, 70 miles inside Egypt on the main road in a drive on the Egyptian army base at Bir Gifgafa, about 55 miles west of the canal. This would put the Israelis about 70 miles from Suez.

Battle In Bethlehem

Hand to hand fighting between Israelis and Jordanians was reported in Bethlehem, Jesus' birthplace, 10 miles southwest of Jerusalem.

Damascus radio asserted that Syrian forces on the northern front had invaded Israel and were advancing on Nazareth, where Jesus grew up.

Saudi Arabia, the Middle East's second biggest oil producer, has decided to cut off oil sales at once to "the countries that are helping Israel in its aggression," Beirut Radio reported. This presumably was aimed at the United States and Britain, accused by the Arab countries of aiding Israel.

Iraq, Kuwait and Algeria halted the sale of oil to the western powers Tuesday.

The Arabs claimed only minor gains in the field but struck back in other ways. Following up closure of the Suez Canal and curtailment of oil shipments to Western Europe, the Arabs began severing relations with the United States and Britain.

Egypt, Syria, Algeria, Yemen, Sudan and Iraq took the step Tuesday, and Lebanon announced it would follow suit. The United States was retaliating with reciprocal breaks.

The break came after Egypt charged that U.S. and British planes had attacked Egypt and Jordan. Both the United States and Britain denied the charge, and U.S. Navy spokesmen with the 6th Fleet in the Eastern Mediterranean said "no aircraft from 6th Fleet aircraft carriers have penetrated the air space of any North Africa or Middle East country."

U.S. analysts in Washington viewed the Cairo charge and the ensuing break in relations as an attempt to save face by blaming the humiliating military defeat on U.S. intervention. Western diplomats in Moscow were heartened because the Soviet press and radio ignored the Egyptian charge, apparently because to report it would have implied that the Soviet Union should send its military forces against Israel.

Debt Action Is Tax Boost Key

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democrats are stressing uncertainty raised by the Middle East war as they press for House acceptance of a $29 billion bond issue to help pay for the war.

Republicans have called for defeat of the proposed new $365-billion borrowing limit, saying congressional rejection would force President Johnson to trim his budget.

As the House debate opened today on the debt ceiling measure, GOP leaders also saw defeat of the administration measure as a way to force Johnson to present the tax hike proposal he has mentioned but hasn't submitted to Congress.

$104,284 Given To Head Start

Congressman Philip Ruppe, (R-Mich.) reported today that the Office of Economic Opportunity had granted $104,284 to the "Memomine-Delta-Schoolcraft Community Action Agency" to finance Head Start preschool program in the three counties for 9 months.

The money will be spent on training of 115 children.

Ray LaPorte, director of the CAA in the three counties, will coordinate the program.

Illegal Hunt Fines Boosted

LANSING (AP) — The House sent to the governor today for his signature bills which would:

—Increase penalties for illegally killing or possessing game animals and birds.

—Tax and regulate out-of-state insurance firms which do business with Michigan residents by mail.

—Allow buses and trucks with dangerous cargoes to cross railroad tracks without stopping if the tracks are on freeways or well marked by signals.

—Permit community colleges to issue bonds to finance parking facilities.

—Provide for state-issued identification cards to the legally blind.

The hunting bill contains mandatory penalties of from $100 to $200 for illegally killing a deer or bear and from $5 to $10 each for smaller game animals and birds.

The omnibus measure also would permit a crippled person to hunt from a standing vehicle and would allow deer hunting with muzzle loading rifles south of the Muskegon-Bay City line.

It specifically would forbid fleeing a conservation officer and would tighten the law against shining deer by allowing prosecution of anyone who flashes a light at game and who has a weapon not locked in his trunk or otherwise out of reach from inside the vehicle.

"There was a tremendous interest in the contest with hundreds of entrants of all ages from the Upper Peninsula," said Perras. "The fine work of these artists does not go unrewarded for the Bancroft Dairy, as it has for the past six years, provides four regional prizes as well as a grand award prize for the first place winner of the entire Upper Peninsula."

The winners this year are: Grand award, a portable television set, Miss Bonnie Moen of Manistique, a 10th grade student at the Manistique High School.

The regional award winner for Chippewa, Luce, Mackinac, and Scholcraft Counties was Karl Krumrey of Indian Lake Road, Manistique, an 8th grade student at the Manistique High School.

The winner of the region comprising the counties of Delta, Menominee, Dickinson, and Iron Counties is James Giguere of Lake Shore Drive, Escanaba, a 10th grade student at the Holy Name High School.

The winner of the four most westerly counties in the U.P. — Gogebic, Houghton, Keweenaw and Ontonagon — was Mary Buchko of Ironwood, a 7th grade student at the Holy-Trinity and St. Michael School.

The youngest winner for any region was from Region 3, comprising Alger, Baraga and Marquette Counties, where Colleen Masters, a sixth grade student at Lincoln School, Munising, was a winner. Colleen won one of the four transistor radio regional prizes.

The Fair Board was delighted with the cooperation of all the Upper Peninsula schools which had students compete in the contest and it was especially grateful to the Bancroft Dairy for sponsoring the contest and its generosity in again providing the prizes.

Schools Greatest Need? Area Candidates Answer

"What do you consider the most urgent need or greatest problem facing the schools?"

That was the second of three questions asked six active candidates for the Escanaba Area Board of Education by the League of Women Voters at the annual "Meet Your Candidates" program.

Excerpts from the candidates' answers follow:

Leo Alperovitz — It would be foolhardy for me to categorically state that the Escanaba Area school system has a specific problem in one field or another. I am not aware of any problems, if they exist, to the extent that I could back up any such statement with facts and supportive statistics. Nationally, we have a variety of problems facing the schools of today. One of the greatest needs is to determine if we are training for today or for tomorrow. The best educational system is of no value whatsoever if what is learned cannot be adapted to the times in which the learning must be applied.

William DeHaan — The greatest problem facing the schools is trying to provide a varied educational experience for the students during a time of increasing costs and limited finances. If the source or supply of money was unrestricted, there really wouldn't be much of a problem running a school system. But this is not the case. I believe it is the duty of a school board to tap every source of funds available to it, whether it be local, state, federal, or private grant. At all times, the board should follow prudent economic policies, consistent with its educational philosophy.

Richard Hanson — It seems to me one of the great problems of the schools is keeping pace with the tremendous amount of new knowledge which is added to our world each day. Each generation must select the facts, concepts and generalizations appropriate to living in the present and foreseeable future. Today, with the total knowledge in many fields doubling every few years, what new knowledge should be added and what old knowledge omitted in order that the younger generation be best prepared to meet the future successfully? The schools are called upon to maintain a great flexibility in curriculum and to keep pace with today's complex world.

Albin Pearson Jr. — There is no scientific visual aid or computer that will ever be able to replace a good teacher in the classroom. What are we doing in this community to keep the fine teachers we now have and to attract new teachers? Let's face it, our salaries are not adequate enough to do this, which brings us to the biggest problem as I see it: Where will we get the money to meet the salaries that are required. One of the most common answers to this question is to raise taxes, but is this the only answer?

David Rivard — The most urgent need or great problem facing the schools today is to complete the educational process — to give those students not going to college some useful skills they can use in industry or service. . . . A greater variety of trade courses should be offered and if a person has the desire toward one particular trade and this is shown early in the high school level, he should have the facilities made available to him to go deeper into the subject than is presently offered. . . . I feel we can add and should add additional skills and labors to this program in our school system.

Urban Steimets — The greatest problem facing the school today is to keep in step with the knowledge explosion. The old idea of the public school as "training for life" is ridiculous today. As the child leaves our high school, he is only beginning to be trained. . . . To introduce the student to the real world of work, the school is going to have to increasingly use the resources of the community. . . . With the increasing demand for the educational dollar, duplication can no longer be tolerated.

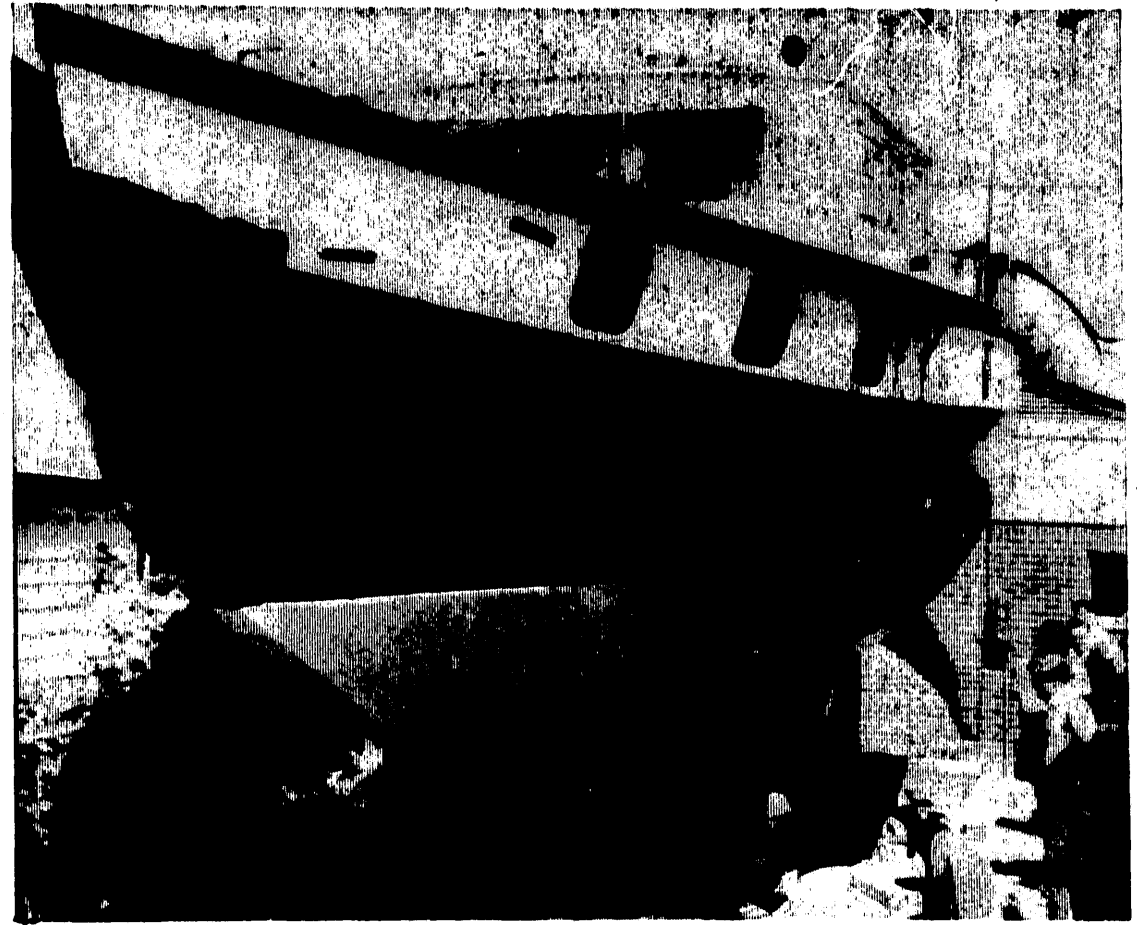

Plans To Wed In Jerusalem Almost Fatal

AMMAN, Jordan (AP) — A young Mexican couple came to Jerusalem to fulfill their vow to marry in the Holy City. Instead they almost got killed by the bullets and bombs of the Arab-Israeli war.

"We were machine-gunned by planes, bullets whizzed past, bombs exploded so near we were covered in dust," said Eli-az Guzman, a 38-year-old bookseller from Mexico City. "We were lucky to get out unscathed."

"We have looked forward to our marriage in Jerusalem for such a long time," said his petite bride, Guadeloupe Morande. "We came all this way, and then..."

They saw Roman Catholic Patriarch Alberto Gair only long enough for him to absolve them from their vow to solemnize their civil marriage a year ago with a religious ceremony in Jerusalem.

BUILT BY 23-year-old Ross Morphew, the 36-foot sailboat Meka II rests against a garage after sliding off her supports while being hoisted on a trailer. Meka, Morphew says, is a Hopi Indian word for "stout companion." When she's finished, Morphew, his wife and child plan to live aboard the boat. Morphew had to move it from the backyard because it is in violation of Dearborn Heights zoning ordinances. (AP Wirephoto)

Civil Rights Unit Attacked

LANSING (AP) — A resolution calling for abolition of the State Civil Rights Commission was introduced Tuesday by two Democratic lawmakers.

Sponsored by Reps. E. D. O'Brien of Detroit and Edward Mahalak of Romulus, the measure would delete from the Constitution the provisions establishing the commission and empowering it to investigate charges of discrimination.

Two-thirds majorities in both houses of the Legislature would be required to put the question to a vote of the people.

The resolution was referred to committee.

U.S. Planning On Israel Hit

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Charles H. Percy urges congressional review of State Department planning amid increasing GOP grumbling over other aspects of administration actions in the Middle East crisis.

Percy, considered a possibility for the Republican presidential nomination next year, said in an interview the government's handling of the Arab-Israeli clash "left grave questions in my mind about the quality of our advance planning."

Picturing himself as a non-neutral supporter of Israel, the Illinois senator said despite many advance signs of trouble in the Middle East the State Department was still doing research this week on whether the United States had a commitment to Israel.

Another potential contender for the GOP presidential nod in 1968, Michigan Gov. George Romney, urged President Johnson to "insist that conditions in the Middle East insure the true preservation of the national integrity and independence of Israel."

In a telegram to Johnson, Romney pledged his support to U.S. efforts to end Middle East hostilities, which he called tragic.

In Sacramento, Calif., GOP Gov. Ronald Reagan said the "real villain" of the Middle East crisis is the Soviet Union, which he said is "probably as anti-semitic" as Nazi Germany. Reagan planned to appear at a Sunday rally in Los Angeles in support of the Israeli cause.

Figures fascinate bankers, especially when they reach a size as big as $9,100,893. So we here at First National Bank are impressed when we see our loan totals up over Nine Million Dollars.

But we see more than dollars and cents. We look behind them and picture a family borrowing to buy a dream home . . . a man asking us to help him set up in business for himself . . . a hard-working youngster who has saved up for his first car, relying on us to provide the rest . . . a couple using our funds to meet an emergency . . . we see a thousand different uses for money we've been happy to lend.

If helping business and individuals prosper and lead happier lives adds up to $9,100,893, we can only say humbly "we're proud."

Press And Politicians

President Johnson would be much happier in his job if it weren't for the press. Anyone in his job would. They would all agree that a free press is necessary to America's freedoms and then hasten to add that it makes a heck of a lot of trouble for officeholders in the process.

Scotty Reston of the New York Times, one of the most influential news commentators of our time, discusses the problem of the reporter's relationship with government in a new book, "The Artillery of the Press," just published by Harper & Row.

Reston is in on many government secrets. He knew about the U-2 spy flights before one of the high flying planes was downed by the Russians. He knew about President Kennedy's jawoff with Khrushchev at Vienna before it was reported and about the Bay of Pigs invasion of Cuba before it was undertaken and fizzled so dismally.

If Reston is a reporter, why didn't he report these big news events? Because he learned about them on condition of not reporting them.

Reston's book is about his unhappiness in trying to reconcile the roles of reporter and patriot. There are hazards in reporting everything (practically, such a reporter soon has his sources of information dried up) and also in not reporting things which might harm his government.

This problem of proper course in dealing with national safety and with the public right-to-know is not going to be solved by Reston's book. No one else is going to solve it, either; we will continue to live in a situation where it is played by ear, with the government holding the best cards and trying to use the press as an instrument of its policy.

While the press and the government should be serving the same goal — national interest — they go about it in very different ways and if the press is to become merely an agent of the state the citizens will have lost the chief means of making the government accountable to them and democratic processes will have been greatly weakened.

It is naive to think that an administration will report its errors or even admit them, so there is a basic incompatibility in the idea of free criticism and secretive public policy. Since we have both of them in America and no prospect of dispensing with either, we have stress and we had just better learn to live with it.

Reston's criticism of the American press will be familiar reading to American newsmen. He says the U. S. press ignores all but the most sensational of foreign developments and this is true. (The Ann Arbor News, serving a campus community with more than the usual number of eggheads, prints more foreign news than does the big, hard-to-carry Detroit News.)

And even if newspapers tackled more analysis of scientific, economic and technical news their staffs would be deficient in expertise to do it well, he suggests. He favors better-educated journalists, more space for analysis, more comment by experts from the universities and elsewhere.

But he doesn't come through with a strong conviction that it is possible for newspapers to be all things — to be highly and expertly informative, to be provocatively stimulating, to be entertaining and yet responsible and also to be profitable.

Some newspapers, at least, are capable of a more expert, sophisticated and responsible treatment of news and comment, but are confronted with the need to keep their readers, and, if possible, to get more of them. The need for more reading to keep abreast of increasing knowledge is no guarantee that there will be such a result.

It is a gross oversimplification of the press-government relationship problem to suggest that our federal government deals with a world conspiracy of communism and must have power to suppress news in the national interest. Government tends to be secretive and the concern of the press is with the suppression of news that is known to the enemy, but not to our citizens at home.

Reston has contributed to the stature of the American press and he will have done another big public service if his book instructs Americans that incompatibility between government and press is not unhealthy.

'Wall' Splits Korea

By BRUCE BOSSAT

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — In the free world, South Korea is widely ignored today as a small country whose war crisis was "solved" at the negotiating table 14 years ago. It has been rubbed off the trouble slate.

Yet the "solution" reached at Panmunjon in 1953 requires this struggling land of 30 million people to maintain armed forces totaling more than 600,000—the fourth largest army in the free world.

Two-thirds of that force is constantly in the field, manning the truce demarcation line which separates South and North Korea. Maintaining the South Korean armed forces takes nearly one-third of that country's yearly budget.

The burden would be even heavier were it not for the presence of some 50,000 U. S. troops on the western end of the demarcation line. We provide the costly tanks and planes, without which contribution the South Koreans would have to spend closer to two-thirds of their budget outlay on defense.

The "solution" is hardly a happy one in other ways. More than most in the world, the Koreans — South and North — feel bound together as a people. But across that demarcation line in the vicinity of the 38th parallel there is no normal linkage of any kind.

There is no trade. There is no traffic. Communications are nonexistent. In fact, the North Korean Reds are so rigid that not even the Red Cross can be used for the sending of mail. Thus many, many Koreans live world.

with relatives across the truce line are completely cut off from them. No holiday visits like those across the Berlin wall are ever permitted.

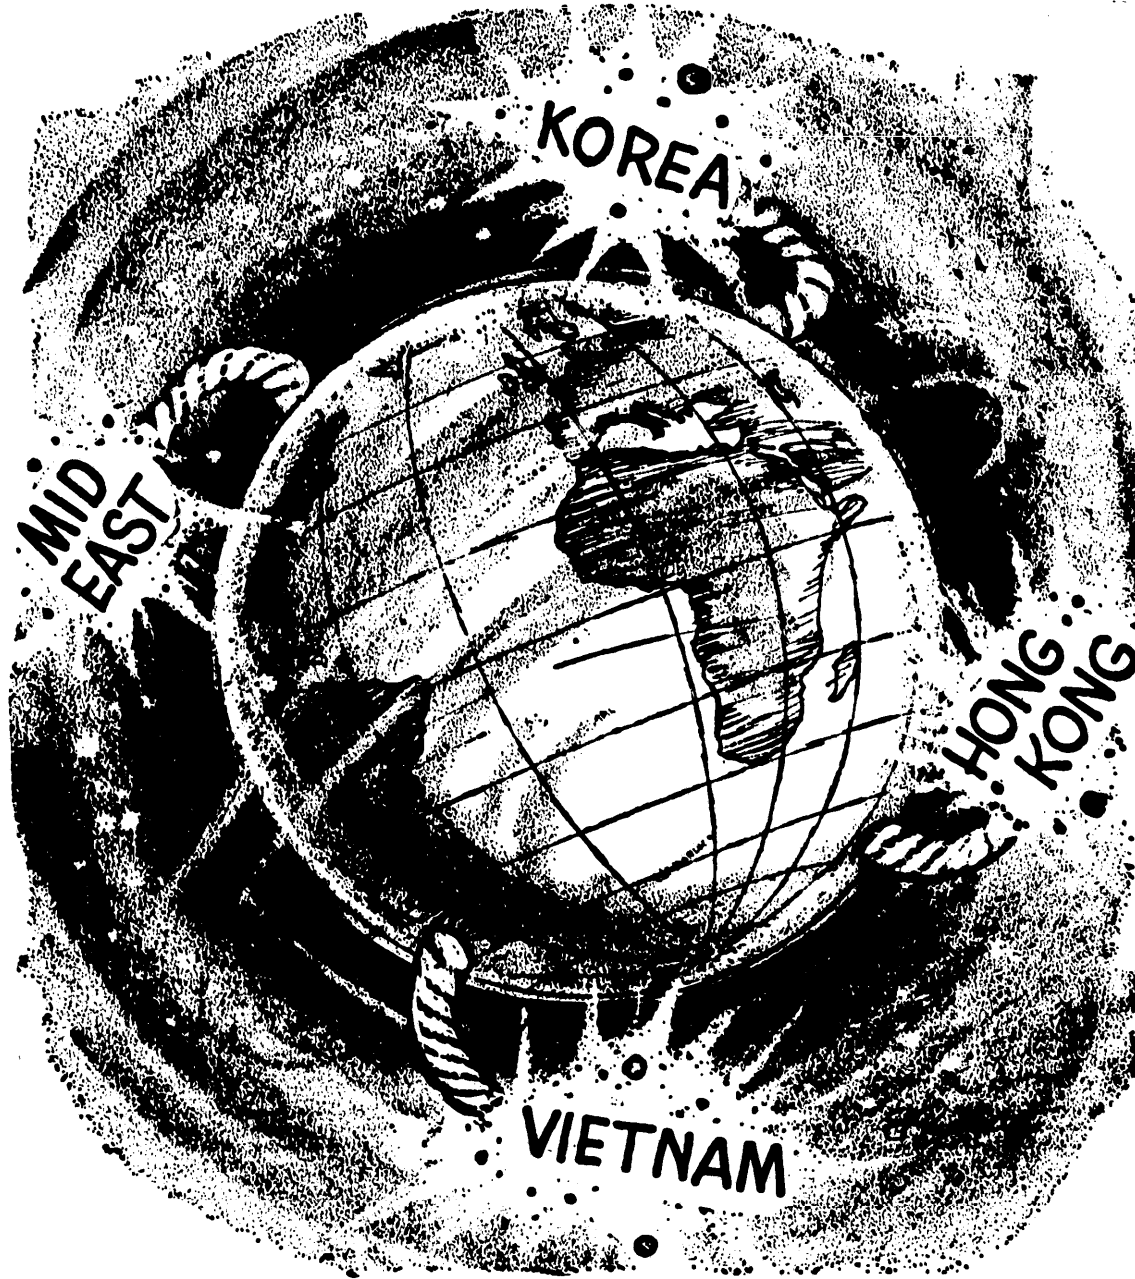

In human terms, then, the division of Korea into two parts is shattering. For, as some high South Korean officials pointed out on a recent visit to Washington, the Koreans' aspirations for unity are probably stronger than those in Germany. Nevertheless, they have now lived as a divided people for 21 years.

The worst of it is that there are no peace and unification talks in progress, and no prospect of any. They were supposed to follow the truce talks which ended in mid-1953, but they never got off the ground.

Even if unity parleys were under way, they likely would be offering only the slenderest hopes of a real solution. Merely to achieve an arrangement to stop the fighting and return prisoners required 575 separate talking sessions spread over two years and 17 days.

Long ago the Reds violated the arrangement by building up their military forces and denying to authorized truce teams their right to inspection. Red infiltration of South Korea goes on steadily. Many shooting episodes involve Red soldiers who are escorting infiltrators through the lines.

So, though South Korea grows admirably on the economic front, it lives in a state of rigid tension—divided from its "other self" to the north and always on the guard. That it must do so is hardly a triumph for the negotiating process as practiced by the two warring sides.

$50 Million Going For Apollo Changes

By RONALD THOMPSON

DOWNEY, Calif. (AP) — Apollo spacecraft 101 sits in its crib inside the giant, factory "clean room," pampered like a baby. No one, those around it maintain, is going to be able to say this is a poorly built ship.

Some call it "Wally's Ship," since Navy Capt. Walter M. Schirra Jr., will be commander of the three-man Apollo crew that'll fly it for up to 10 days in earth orbit next year. Officially, it's plain "101."

This has become the most guarded and rigidly controlled vehicle ever to be assembled at the North American Aviation, Inc., plant where America's moonships are built.

To Vindicate Builders Not only is this the craft picked to get U.S. manned space missions off the ground again, but, to thousands of North American employees, it's the one that hopefully will prove that regardless of what anybody says, they can indeed build safe, flyable spacecraft.

North America's last Apollo designed to take men into space caught fire on the launch pad Jan. 27, killing three astronauts — Asw. Force Lt. Col. Virgil I. Grissom and Edward H. White II and Navy Lt. Cmdr. Roger B. Chaffee. Investigators placed part of the blame on "sloppy workmanship" within this plant. "We're sort of like a football team that got a good, strong chewing out in the dressing room at the half after a first-half shellacking," said Sandford "Sandy" Falbaum, who holds a newly created job of seeing "101" through to completion.

"We've come out for the second half a little angry. Enough people around here are just miffed enough to go out and play a real good ball game," he added. "The real essence of the thing now is let's show 'em."

The 5,000 men and women who work on Apollo got good news when the National Aeronautics and Space Administration quelled their fears that North America might be stripped of its estimated $3.3-billion Apollo contract, costing them their jobs.

Trying Harder "We're trying harder now," said Barbara McIsaac, a production control clerk. "We want to prove to the world that we are better than they thought."

Department 662, a select team of about 50, is responsible for doing the actual modification work on "101" to make it safer from fire. Art Huffman, the supervisor, is convinced: "I don't think we have to take a back seat to anybody."

Department 662 wears a badge of honor — a red tag that says "101" worn with each individual's regular lapel security badge. "It helps the hatch guard identify those allowed near it," one official said. "But, it also serves as a little extra incentive."

Clean Room The "clean room," where vehicles undergo final assembly and checkout, has always operated with tight restrictions. It has a 47-foot ceiling and an air shed that changes the air two or three times an hour, maintaining a temperature of about 75 degrees with a 50 per cent humidity.

With "101" more care than ever before has been taken to keep it, and vehicles that follow, clean and free of foreign articles. When fire-charred Apollo 1 was dismantled, investigators discovered a wrench socket that had been dropped amid the wiring. The socket was not linked to the fire, however.

Close Check You can't get into the "clean room" until you stick your shoes in a special, electric brushing machine that briskly removes the dirt. Then, you don a plastic cap that covers your hair and a nylon smock over your clothes. Should you have a long beard, you wear a surgical mask.

No one actually climbs inside "101" unless he's on an approved list. Those who do, first must put on a set of coveralls, plus a special pair of overshoes. Additionally, they remove all loose articles from their pockets — billfolds, change, keys, even pencils — and deposit them in plastic bags, kept by the guard.

You sign in, listing all articles you take with you. When you come out, you must account for all items on the list.

Report Missing Items Workmen must immediately report all missing washers or bolts or anything else that might be dropped, even if they only have a hunch it may be inside. All work is halted and a thorough search is made.

Someone is on duty with "101" 24 hours a day. Spacecraft 101, which was well down the assembly line at the time of the Apollo 1 tragedy, is undergoing an extensive overhaul that will cost in the neighborhood of $50 million. This includes a new quick-opening hatch, removal of as many flammable materials as possible, new fireproof panels, plus improved plumbing and wiring systems.

To do this, North American has assembled some of its best engineering talent to concentrate on "101" to get it to the launch pad in December, for flight about three months later by Schirra, Air Force Maj. Donn F. Eisele and Walter R. Cunningham, a civilian.

People, Events Of Yesteryears

25 Years Ago The formal opening of the new Neisner store was held. Clayton H. Sawdon of Pontiac became the manager of the store, which is considered to be the most modern of the 116 Neisner stores now operating in 16 states in the country. About 30 Escanaba residents are employed at the store.

Escanaba High School Coach Jim Rouman was the main speaker at the annual senior class banquet. All members of the class of 1942, senior faculty advisers and members of the school board were present. Bob Stephens was toastmaster.

50 Years Ago A gale of wind worked havoc in many parts of the city. Large display windows at the Fair Store and Kratz Brothers department store were blown in, a steel flag pole at the court house was snapped off, many chimneys were blown from houses and trees were uprooted.

The pupils of the Jefferson school have won the honor of leading all of the public schools of the city for attendance during the past school year. For having the best attendance record for the year, the school was awarded a prize.

Even a wild driver has trouble making his car live up to the wild name the manufacturer has dreamed up for it. But he tries.

They're making it so hard to confess a crime these days that a lazy crook must be tempted to take the easy way out and go free.

Why does a presidential candidate knock himself out to get into the White House and then try even harder to get out of it every minute he possibly can?

One of the best ways to get a good score either in duplicate or rubber bridge is to bid too much and then make your contract. This procedure is not recommended as a steady diet. You don't make enough of these unsound contracts to pay for times when you get set.

Armin Speer of East Orange, N.J., had a minimum no-trump opening. His partner carried him to six spades with good distribution but only 11 high card points.

Armin won the club opening and studied dummy unhappily. He noted that there was no way for him to make his contract unless West held the ace of hearts and that he also had to locate the queen of diamonds.

He took his medicine quickly and led the nine of hearts. East won the heart return with the jack and led a trump. Armin won in his own hand, led a club and ruffed in dummy, ruffed a heart, ruffed his nine of clubs in hopes that the queen might fall. He ruffed dummy's last heart in his own hand with the ace and noted that West dropped a diamond. Led his low spade to dummy. Then he played dummy's last trump. East had to follow and Armin paused to count the hand. West had shown up with only one trump and three hearts. Therefore he had started with either five clubs and four diamonds or four clubs and five diamonds. In either even Armin decided to hold his jack of clubs as a threat against West and to let a diamond go.

West dropped a third diamond and everything looked wonderful. Armin led a diamond to his king and his last diamond back to dummy. When West followed to that diamond lead, Armin went right up with dummy's ace and picked up. This last play was a certainty. West's one remaining card was known to be the queen of clubs. It couldn't be the queen of diamonds.

Ann Landers

Pastor Has Bills To Pay, Send A Check

Dear Ann Landers: I have been going with a man for five months. We plan to marry next year. Now he has told me that he wants to play around with other women and I'd better get used to the idea. According to him, all men do this and anyone who believes otherwise is stupid, naive or both.

He says the male philosophy works this way: "A man loves only one woman but he must be free to entertain himself with as many women as he needs, regardless of whether he is married or single."

I told him to hit the road. Now I am sorry. I cry a lot and can't eat. Please tell me if I should accept his philosophy and make the best of it.

TEARS IN THE PILLOW

Dear Tears: If you marry this man, prepare to cry yourself a river that will make the Amazon look like a muddy creek. Life is rough enough for the woman who marries in good faith and discovers that she has drawn a guy with alloy-cat tendencies. The woman who would agree in advance to tolerate such antics is clearly out of her mind.

Dear Ann Landers: Recently you told some teen-agers whose foreign-born parents insist that they speak a foreign language at home, "By all means do it. It's a great advantage to be fluent in a second language. Practice. Practice. You'll be glad you did."

You should have advised those teen-agers to urge their parents to speak English. Chances are the children are already fluent in a second language, and their parents could use the practice.

As a school teacher in the New York public school system I can tell you it is impossible to repair the damage done by parents who insist that their children speak the mother tongue at home. I am now struggling with a student who says "Kveen Victoria." He also says "wheel chops" and "east is east and vest is vest." Another boy in the same class tells me he plays the "sexaphone."

In the past you have been big enough to admit it when you are wrong. I hope you will do so again.—MISS L.

Dear Miss: I am and I do. Your point is excellent and I appreciate being hauled up short. Thank you for writing.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I moved to this rather small city last year. We have no religious affiliation and we don't want any. Both my husband and I have known so many pious hypocrites that we are completely sour on the whole religious bit.

Last week my husband's elderly father who made his home with us passed away. He was a steady churchgoer before he became an invalid and he asked to be buried from his church.

We asked a young pastor whom we know socially to conduct the services. We are not close friends but we have entertained the pastor and his wife in our home along with other guests.

The pastor gave a beautiful sermon and arranged for the burial. He really took a great burden off our hands and we want to show our appreciation. My husband says we should not insult him by offering cash.

What do you say?—UNDIVIDED

Dear Undecided: If your husband feels that cash is inadequate, tell him to send a check. The pastor won't be insulted. People sometimes forget that those who do the Lord's work have bills to pay—just like everybody else down here.

To solve some of the frustration, disappointments and disillusionments of married life, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "What To Expect from Marriage," enclosing with your request 20c in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

CLASSES AT WARDROBE

LONDON (AP) — Sunday school classes for adults, run on the lines of university seminars, have been started at the London City Church of St. Andrew-by-the-Wardrobe.

"As it is particularly hoped to secure the attendance of those who have never shared, or have lapsed from, the Christian faith, the sittings will be held without prayers in order that no one need feel embarrassed," explained Ivor Bulmer-Thomas, church warden. The church takes its curious name from its past proximity to the royal clothing store.

Dettman Named UPCAP Leader At Sault Meet

UPCAP selected a new Director, elected officers, and heard reports of several programs at its annual meeting Tuesday at Sault Ste. Marie.

Lee D. Meyers, Flint, was elected executive director.

UPCAP officers unanimously elected by the delegate body include two current members—Harold Dettman, St. Ignace, chairman and Fred Hahne, Manistique, treasurer. Other officers elected at the meeting Tuesday include Rev. Louis Cappel, Hubbell, vice chairman; Ronald Calery, Sault Ste. Marie, secretary; Ralph Noble, Houghton, university board member; Myron Ross, Menominee, board member; Judge Donald Munro, Ontonagon, board member.

Father Cappel succeeds Lynn Sandberg, L'Anse, as vice chairman and Calery succeeds Harold Vanlerberghe, Escanaba, as secretary. Other former board members include Dr. Claude Bosworth and Mrs. Geraldine Defant, both of Marquette.

Victor Kral, Iron Mountain, was named chairman and Thomas Vizanko, Bessemer, a member, of the newly formed personnel committee which will present several personnel policies at the next delegate body meeting in September.

Need Coordinator

Former Executive Director Joseph V. Tuma said that "with 209 political sub-divisions in the Upper Peninsula, we need a body such as UPCAP to strengthen the inter-organizational structure of the area."

Discussing the state and federal funds received by UPCAP, Tuma stated that these monies had value only if they met the needs of the Upper Peninsula and serve to support the goals of the area.

Tuma received a plaque from the delegate body and a copper desk piece from the UPCAP staff.

UPCAP Industrial Specialist David Farrand reported that in the first five months of 1967, seven new projects were completed involving new investment of $1,835,000 and 125 new jobs.

These new industries were created in four U. P. counties.

The delegate body authorized the executive committee to approve and submit a new Economic Development Administration proposal, to continue implementation of the Economic Development Districts and to appoint a temporary staff position to direct the EDD implementation.

Study Reported

Ray Gummerson of Michigan State University reported that some 40 persons in the Upper Peninsula had been provided information on the tourism and recreation study made by MSU and that UPCAP was studying ways of implementing the transportation and marketing report by EBS management consultants.

Two manpower programs were explained. In the current on-the-job training program, Dr. Richard Zabelka, Lake Superior State College, noted that some 93 trainees have completed full training courses and over 88 per cent of these persons have remained on the job following termination of their training program. A new OJT proposal has been submitted to the Department of Labor for funding.

Back Resolutions

The delegate body also voted to cooperate with NORCAP in a new pilot 10-county rural employment program. Dr. Kenneth Light, Lake Superior State College, was appointed UPCAP's representative on the policy committee to plan and implement a concentrated employment program for rural areas in Northern Michigan including Chippewa, Luce and Mackinac counties in the U. P. Richard Speicher, Eastern U. P. Intermediate School District supervisor, explained the new Title III grant which provides seven area counselors to meet with School Boards and the public to solve vocational education problems and plan school district reorganization. The UPCAP Human Resources Council cooperated with the Intermediate School Districts to secure the $300,000 grant for the 1967-68 academic year.

In other action, the delegate body supported House Bill 2940 which authorizes municipalities to appropriate funds for historical purposes, voted to support the elimination of tolls on the Mackinac Bridge, supported the proposed new Lake Superior Scenic Highway, and voted to give Lake Superior State College membership with other higher education institutions on the delegate body.

Iron Mt. Native Named New Director Of UPCAP

Lee D. Meyers, 34, a native of the Upper Peninsula, has been named new executive director of the Upper Peninsula Committee for Area Progress. Meyers was one of 40 candidates interviewed for the position.

Meyers was selected by the UPCAP Personnel Committee and received a unanimous recommendation by the UPCAP delegate body at its annual meeting Tuesday at Sault Ste. Marie.

The new UPCAP director will assume the position immediately.

Meyers was born in Iron Mountain and has spent many years in the Upper Peninsula. He is now living in Flint where he is completing a leadership training program under a Mott Foundation grant.

Meyers received his B. S. degree from Northern Michigan University in 1958 and his M. A. degree from the same institution in 1961. He also holds an education specialist degree from Eastern Michigan University, Ypsilanti.

The UPCAP director has completed additional graduate work at Purdue University and the University of Minnesota. He also has been awarded a General Electric Foundation fellowship, a National Foundation fellowship, and the current Mott Foundation fellowship.

An experienced educator, Meyers has taught in high schools in Florence and Greenfield, Wis., and has served as principal of Cadott, Wis., High School. He also has been superintendent of schools in Felch, and North Dickinson County schools.

He served as a member of the Dickinson County Planning Commission, the Dickinson-Iron Vocational Study Committee and was a member of the Small Business Administration committee. He holds memberships in a number of professional education organizations.

Meyers was one of 52 men selected by the Mott Foundation out of a field of some 2,000 applicants from the United States and foreign countries for their training in leadership administration and community development program.

He is currently completing his internship in Educational Administration at Eastern Michigan University under the $8,000 grant from the Mott Foundation.

The program includes the study of school administration and internship work involving visitation of selected schools and direct work with school personnel.

Meyers is replacing Joseph V. Tuma, who resigned as UPCAP executive director in January to accept a manpower utilization specialist position with the University of Michigan.

Meyers is the third man to hold the UPCAP Executive Director's position in the organization's five-year history. Prior to Tuma, Dr. E. V. Bowden held the post. The new executive director and his wife, Madalen, have three children: Kim 10, Kevin 6, and Mark 1.

Strawberries Bring $1,200

BENTON HARBOR (AP) — A crate of strawberries was sold by grower Nathan Shelton of Berrien Center for a record $1,200 at the Benton Harbor fruit market Tuesday and there were no squawks from the seller or the buyers.

It marked the traditional opening sale of the season and the crate was purchased by Paul Friday of Coloma, Ed Roraback of Benton Harbor and Owen Moore of Berrien Springs, three retail fruit market operators. The previous high was $675 paid last year.

Annually buyers bid for the first crate of the season and all but $25, which the grower receives, is earmarked for charities designated by the purchaser.

The second crate was sold for $500 and six other crates and flats went for $99.

Ten Year Old Takes 8 Trout Scaling 41 lbs.

Fishing picked up in this area in the week with the opening of bass season, the Conservation Dept. reports fishing was good on the Ford River with up to 200 fishermen out on opening day several limits taken by trolling and still fishing using the Raapala and worms for bait. A 21-inch five-pound smallmouth bass was taken on the Ford River this past week.

The Escanaba River is producing nice catches of rock bass and perch at the face of Dam No. 1 using worms and still fishing.

Bark River up and downstream from the M-35 bridge south of Escanaba has produced several nice rainbow trout on worms and spawn bags.

Perch Biting

In the Gladstone area perch were being taken on minnows and worms off the old slab dock at Maywood in fair numbers. Some northern pike have been taken on large minnows and artificial lures at north Gladstone and Masonville.

Some brook trout are being taken on the west branch of the Whitefish and on Chippeney Creek.

In the Ensign and Garden areas rainbow trout fishing has been fair on Camp Seven Lake. Chicago Lake is producing good pike and pan fishing. Bass and northern pike fishing has been good in the bay area of the Fishdam rivers.

In the Gwinn area rainbow trout fishing is good on Johnson Lake in Section 27, T45N-R25W; mostly night fishing using corn for bait. Brook, brown, and rainbow fishing good to fair on the Escanaba River system using wet flies and worms. Perch fishing is good on Big Shag Lake in Section 25, T45N-R26W, using worms and minnows. Some walleyes are being taken on Little Lake using minnows and artificial lures.

Trout Hitting

In the Trenary area good trout fishing is reported on all streams using flies and nightcrawlers with several nice catches being taken.

In the Chatham and AuTrain areas lake trout trolling has been excellent off the mouths of all streams using trolling spoons and Raapala for bait. Rainbow trout still are being taken off the Rock River and in Shelter Bay, trolling. Coho salmon continue to hit off the mouths of Rock, Laughing

Whitefish, and in Shelter Bay. Some brook trout taken in Johnson and Slapneck creeks and AuTrain and Rock rivers.

Bass fishing has been good at the north end of AuTrain Basin. Several caught in the three to five pound class, casting with plugs and jigs. Pan fishing has been good in AuTrain Basin. Walleyes and northern pike are being caught in AuTrain Lake and River using nightcrawlers and live minnows.

In general heaviest pressure for fishing in the district was for bass in the Ford River, south of Escanaba, and trolling for lake trout, rainbow, and coho salmon in Lake Superior from Marquette to Munising. This latter type of fishing has doubled in the past year with many fish being caught and fishermen enjoying it very much.

Ten-year-old Jimmy Dhaene of Shelter Bay caught eight lake trout totaling 41½ pounds plus a three pound steelhead in one day fishing on Shelter Bay.

Fishing should be good and continue to improve throughout the next week. Road conditions throughout the Escanaba District are generally good and water has been clear and low, says Robert W. Timmer, district conservation law supervisor.

Romney Rallies Votes For Tax

LANSING (AP)—With their two-punch tax program in position for a final vote, House Republican leaders have enlisted Gov. George Romney's aid in their search for votes to pass it. One reluctant Republican emerged from a 25-minute session in Romney's office Tuesday and said the governor had suggested Republicans might repay his support for the fiscal package with votes for his views on court reorganization.

That GOP member, Rep. Donald Holbrook of Clare, said he still didn't intend to vote for the tax program. House Republicans moved the tax package Tuesday into position for a final vote.

Speaker Robert Waldron, playing by ear and carefully counting his votes, said he hoped for a showdown this week on the Republican-drafted package and its controversial state income tax.

He said he had "over 50" of the 55 votes needed to pass the bills. He declined to comment on whether he thought any Democrats would favor it. House Republicans heavily amended the Senate's three-bill tax program Tuesday and moved it to third reading—the legislative stage where a bill is passed or defeated for good. The House adopted a substitute for the Senate's income tax bill—causing Democratic chief William Ryan to warn it would kill tax reform for the year if the new bill passed.

"I doubt that the votes are here in the House," Ryan said. "But if they are, I'm sure that fiscal reform is dead because the Senate will not negotiate with the House in an area where the two sides are so far apart."

The House version calls for taxes of 2 1/2 per cent on persons 5 per cent on corporations and 7 per cent on banks. It would raise the annual per-person intangibles tax exemption from $10 to $100 and rebate part of the income tax collected to local government units.

Democrats opposed adoption of the substitute, arguing it was much easier on corporations than the Senate-passed plan. But majority Republicans, bound by a caucus position, defeated the Democrats in a series of 55-46 and 55-47 votes.

The package which advanced Tuesday would, if passed, expire at the end of 1969. Republican leaders hope by then a permanent package with similar provisions will have been approved by Michigan voters.

"Thanatopsis," written by William Cullen Bryant at the age of 17, is said to be America's first great poetic work.

Special Teal Hunt Planned

An experimental teal hunting season will be held in September, it is announced by the Michigan Conservation Commission.

The season will be Sept. 15-23, the day bag limit is 4 and the possession limit 8 birds, singly or in the aggregate.

Hunting will be confined to certain lands and waters in Michigan. In this area it is Little Bay de Noc in Delta County, in those waters and marshes lying north of a line drawn from the mouth of the Ford River to Peninsula Point. Hunting shall not extend into the upland more than one-fourth mile from the ordinary high water mark.

The Department of Conservation will issue not more than 15,000 free validated federal teal permits to persons who may wish to hunt in the eight designated areas in Michigan.

The Department will accept mailed applications only. Applications, on a government post card, are to be postmarked not earlier than Saturday, June 24, nor later than Monday, July 31.

They should be addressed to Blue Winged Teal, Michigan Department of Conservation, Lansing, Mich., 48926.

Besides the teal permit, the hunter must have a 1967 small game license and a 1967 federal migratory bird-hunting stamp.

State Increases Aides To Jobless

Sunday Liquor Up For Ballot

Heavier Park Fees For Visitors Voted

LANSING (AP)—The Senate was prepared today to vote on an amendment - laden bill calling for Sunday liquor sales and described by one senator as "the biggest bag of goodies to come out of the Senate this year."

Sale of liquor on Sunday was included in one of four amendments tacked onto a House bill which originally would have prohibited retail sale of liquor by manufacturers, warehousemen or wholesalers.

The Sunday sale amendment, added by Sen. John McCauley, D - Wyandotte, was proposed earlier in the session in bill form by Sen. Stanley Novak, D-Detroit. The Novak bill passed the Senate but died in House committee.

County Board Action

The Sunday liquor amendment would allow county boards of supervisors to approve such sale by resolution 60 days after the effective date of the bill. If the supervisors failed to act within the period, a petition could be filed with the county clerk requesting submission of the question to the board.

Two other amendments, added by Sen. Frank Beadle, R-St. Clair, would exempt packaged liquor dealers from the present law which prohibits sale of liquor within 500 feet of a church and would extend some 600 resort liquor licenses from 10 months to 12.

An amendment added by Sen. Charles Zollar, R - Benton Harbor, would prohibit retailers from asking wholesalers to deliver their retail sales.

The bill, backed primarily by Detroit - area Democrats who have long sought Sunday liquor, needed 20 votes to pass. There are 18 Democrats and 20 Republicans in the Senate.

The Senate reportedly was one vote short of the number needed to pass the bill.

McCauley said he has been assured there would be sufficient votes to pass it in the House.

Hike Park Fees

In other action Tuesday, the Senate, passed 25-9 a measure providing for a stiff increase in state parks entrance fees, despite a last ditch stand by tourist area senators.

As sent to the House, the much - amended and long-debated bill would provide a $1 daily charge and a $3 yearly fee for car entrance stickers to state parks.

Visitors from other states would be charged $2 a day and $5 a year for the car stickers. The current charge is 50 cents a day and $2 a year.

The measure also would permit issuance of an additional $10 million in bonds by the Conservation Department for park land purchase and improvement.

The privilege will not be extended to girls on academic probation and women under 21 years of age will need parental permission to participate.

May's Record Was Cold, Dry

May was the third coolest May in Escanaba in the past 50 years, reports the U. S. Weather Bureau. It was also the driest since 1948.

Over the span of a half-century May had an average temperature of 46.2 degrees— which was lower only in 1924 and 1947. This was more than 4 degrees below normal for the month.

The minimum temperature on May 22 (30 degrees) set a new record for that date, the Weather Bureau reports. The previous record low was 33 degrees back in 1883.

Precipitation totaled only 1 1/2 inches, slightly less than half the normal, making it the driest May in the past 19 years.

Highest temperature for the month was 69 degrees on May 25 and the low was 25 degrees on May 3.

The dry and chilly weather of the past month is predicted to be followed by warm and dry weather throughout June for this region, according to the Bureau's long-range forecast.

For the north central U. S. region temperatures will be above normal and precipitation below normal; while in the southern U. S. it will be colder and wetter than average.

Mini, Midi, Minuet Star At Tiffeau Show

NEW YORK (AP) — Leather egg roll toppers tied under the chin, thigh high boots, mini crowns and cowboy hats, mink shoes and coon-cuffed britches were a part of a show put on by manikins modelling Jacques Tiffeau's fall fashion collection.

As circus music blared in his tiny showrooms Tuesday, gun-toting cow-girls, ladies in leotards, and strippers too, burst into their acts.

But the starring team were the three Ms. Mini, Midi and Minuet. They represented the lengths Tiffeau is allowing hemlines to grow to this winter.

The Minuet was the sweet old fashioned girl with bands of mink on her mini skirt to match her mink shoes.

The Midi was usually a coat stopping between the knee and the ankle. The longer the coat the shorter the dress underneath. However the combination is a humane solution to the mini-madness during the long hard winter ahead.

Other frost thwarting schemes Tiffeau offered were leather boots higher than a trout fisherman's and mink baby caps with furry tails that tied at the nape of the neck. Still other hot ideas were slacks of grape-hued mole and a skirt and jacket costume of green-tinged mole.

And who could overlook the khaki colored britches with the coon cuffs worn under a very short shift?

Occasionally a playful manikin stripped off her long skirt to show off her short one, or her electric-hued long johns with the turtle neck collar that reached the ears.

Under an umpteenth thousand dollar sable that reached the ankles one miss audaciously wore orange neon knit long johns.

Other eye-blinking color combinations in the fashion circus included a fluorescent pink midi coat over silthery black leather mini skirt and topper.

Despite these theatrical aspects, the basic apparel was typical of the French imported designer.

Jackets were of the jaunty Eisenhower or smock type over softly gathered skirts, worn with sleeveless ring colored blouses. Cowboy hats, cocked over the forehead or tiny felt crowns or leather rolls, or reels of cellophane served as toppers.

Wool jersey, often in gray or khaki colors, were high waisted or loosely sashed under mini bosoms.

Somber blacks, all lengths, were vitalized by jeweled dog colors or rhinestone borders.

Rev. Laaninen New Pastor At Rock, Perkins

On Friday, June 9, Rev. Peter A. Laaninen will be installed as the pastor of Faith Lutheran Church in Rock and Bethany Lutheran Church in Perkins. The installation service will be held at Faith Church in Rock at 8 p. m. Dr. Theodore E. Matson, president of the Wisconsin-Lutheran Synod of the American Lutheran Church in America, will preach and perform the installation. Also participating in the service will be Dr. Waldemar Nelson, pastor of Bethany Lutheran Church in Escanaba and dean of the district, and Rev. George Olson, pastor of Calvary Lutheran Church in Rapid River. Pastor Olson also served as vice pastor to the two congregations during the period of vacancy.

A reception for the new pastor will be held in the church basement after the service.

Pastor Laaninen comes to the Rock-Perkins Lutheran Parish from West Bend, Wis., where he was assistant pastor of Trinity Lutheran Church since June 1966. Pastor Laaninen is originally from Republic, Mich. He attended Michigan Tech and received a degree in Civil Engineering.

He attended the Lutheran School of Theology at Chicago-Maywood Campus, Maywood, Ill., graduating in 1966 with a Bachelor of Divinity Degree. He was ordained on May 27, 1966. Pastor Laaninen began his duties as the pastor of the Rock-Perkins Lutheran Parish on June 1.

Probable Significance
Opening and closing of the church door by the Pope during Jubilee Year probably is closely connected with the idea of the exclusion of Adam and Eve from Paradise, and the expulsion and reconciliation of penitents.

Hints from Heloise

Dear Heloise:

Those of you who use sweet cucumber pickles, don't discard the jar or the remaining juice after the pickles are all gone.

Open a can of small red beets and drain off the juice. Put the beets in the pickle jar and shake so that they get saturated with the juice.

Refrigerate one day and you have sweet pickled red beets. They are delicious and tangy.

Letter Of Laughter

Have you ever had unexpected company catch your house topsy-turvy on a day when you'd decided to be a patient mother?

Don't try to explain why your house is cluttered. If the guests have children they'll understand. If they don't, they wouldn't believe you anyway.

New Wedding Service Brings Welcome Relief For Brides

Every girl, it is said, dreams of her wedding day. But, while she is planning her wedding, she may also have a nightmare in which she sees herself struggling in a quicksand of detail, hearsick when she discovers too late that she has forgotten an absolute "must" and finally swooning from fatigue.

An estimated 230,000 girls are being married this month, probably about 35,000 more than during any other month of the year. Increasing numbers of them are avoiding the agonies of nuptial preparations by retaining wedding planning services.

A growing number of these organize and deliver weddings, etiquette-correct and memorable, for little more than the do-it-yourself cost, say their owners.

Wedding customs remain virtually unchanged, despite occasional publicity-getting weddings underwater, on horseback or topside. The bridegroom still carries the bride over the threshold, though he usually doesn't know that by doing so he is protecting her from unfriendly spirits.

The bride still throws her bouquet and the girl who catches it still is marked as the next to be married. The brothers of the bride and groom still the old shoes borrowed from the bride's father to the back of the honeymoon car, often unaware that the shoes signify transfer of authority over the bride from father to husband.

Changed Some
Styles have changed a little, though. Bridesmaids are wearing knee-length dresses that are "candy-striped," "pistachio-colored" or done in "vibrant butterfly hues," to quote from advertisements.

Brides are wearing more "beautifully understated" gowns with less lace. High waist lines are popular. So are trains that can be detached so the bride is free to circulate unhindered at the wedding reception.

Wedding gowns, and everything else needed for a wedding, from napkins to flowers, are available through "the largest one-stop wedding service in America," Weddings, Inc., Chicago. The firm plans about 400 weddings a year.

George Horwicz is the firm's president; his brother, Stanley, is secretary-treasurer. They and five other men are the wedding consultants. Why all men? "It's easier for a man to get along with a woman than for a woman to get along with another woman," says George Horwicz.

The thriving firm sends out invitations, helps the bride and bridesmaids select their dresses, rents facilities for the reception, orders catering, flowers, photographs and the orchestra, secures gifts for the bridesmaids, supervises the wedding ceremony and reception, and much more. Five women are kept busy full or part time addressing invitations in Spencerian script.

Andrew Kirby operates a similar service in Los Angeles as an after-hours avocation. He is a pastry chef for a National airline.

In the land of luxurious living, Kirby is more flamboyant than the Horwicz brothers. At a Kirby wedding, white doves flutter and coo in cages held by a statue of Cupid. Wedding cakes are covered with a thin layer of high gloss, transparent pulled sugar, instead of mere frosting. A Kirby cake is a "beautiful thing," he says.

Its beauty didn't prevent one of the cakes from melting in the sun and slipping off a table, Kirby recalls dolefully.

Monkeys Wedding
In 1964, Kirby planned a believe-it-or-not, only-in-California wedding of two Capuchin monkeys. The wedding was attended by 45 friends and relatives of the bride and groom, and 30 male and female people. The soloist sang Aaa-Daba Monymoon ("Aba-daba, said the monkey to the chimp.")

No one laughed, said Kirby, when the bride and her bridesmaids hopped down the aisle in lined, red velvet dresses adorned with white fur.

Mrs. Marilyn Lorenz, 32, is one of two consultants at Bridal Services, Inc., Minneapolis. With her dimpled nose and chin, the beautiful, enthusiastic Marilyn must have been a beautiful bride herself.

Marilyn readily admits that her dissatisfaction with her own wedding may be her motivation to make every wedding an improvement over her own. Her wedding cake was accidentally served on her front steps when a teen-age boy tripped while delivering it. The teen-ager, a family friend, ran away and wasn't seen for nearly two weeks.

When Marilyn goes to a wedding, she goes prepared. Among accessories she carries are deodorant, Band-Aids, a Turkish towel and an extra blue garter.

Recently, says Marilyn, more brides and grooms are paying for their own weddings, relieving the father of the bride of his customary burden. Prospective grooms more often are insisting upon formal church weddings when their brides-to-be preferred simple ceremonies and dinner with friends.

The "quiet" wedding is becoming the "in" way to tie the knot, she reports.

Prestige Device
Wedding planning services might become as common as interior decorators and travel agencies, because the social and economic climate may be right. Affluent Americans are quick to utilize any device that increases their prestige compared with their equally affluent friends and neighbors, say sociologists. Americans may conclude that a custom-package wedding service is one such device.

Furthermore, today's hurried pace of life makes it difficult for a bride-to-be and her mother to remove great blocks of time from their schedules, for months, to plan a wedding. The survey indicated that the time pressure also may account for the apparently increasing willingness of brides to forego fancy weddings.

Finally, there are very human reasons why wedding services may succeed in a big way: Planning and organizing are difficult disciplines for most people, and worry and work are unpleasant for people.

Wedding services may eliminate bridal exhaustion and nervous breakdowns, and free brides to think only pleasant thoughts, and attend showers.

Kathleen Hogan Feted At Shower

Miss Kathleen Hogan was honored at a bridal dinner at the Dells Supper Club on June 2. The dinner was given by the women faculty and staff of the Escanaba Area High School where Miss Hogan has been employed as a teacher of English and journalism.

She is the daughter of Mrs. Mary T. Hogan and the late Bernard Hogan of Marquette. At the dinner the bride-elect was presented with a gift from the women faculty and staff.

Miss Hogan will become the bride of Richard Brunet of Escanaba on June 17 in Marquette.

LeCaptain Dance Students Perform In Revue Tonight

Nursery class students of Jeannette LeCaptain's dance school will perform for the first time in her annual revue on June 7 and 8 at the area high school auditorium at 8 p.m.

The pre-school children who have attended nursery class all year received training in dance as well as other activities. Special music was composed by David Laakso for Nursery class rhythms. The children will perform in three numbers in this years revue.

Irish jig dancers are Jan Thome, Sue Elynn Gardiner, Amy Chown, Robin Seger, Stephanie Sundellus, Shawn Lynaugh, Jon Cuneo, Tommy Tobin, Patrick McDermott, and Bruce Hurkmans.

Coplayers are Irene Huebler, Lynn Grover, Ruth Norton, Jean Bergeon, Lana DeRouin, Lisa Grover, Toni Lynn Cavaleas, Kathy Courneene, Sherry Sorby and Lisa Bienler.

Nursery Class Rhythms will be performed by Daniel Pasino, Tim Brant, John DeMay, Jay Anderson, Steve Lindley, Tom McGovern, Michael McDonough, Patti Mihalie, Kathy McDermott, Trudie and Kallie Hagman, Susan DeMay, Melissa Ollila, and Jodi Trudell.

Tickets are available at the door or from dance school students. The theme of this year's show is, "Alice in Topsy Turvy Land," and is based on the famous story by Lewis Carroll. The story will be narrated by Jack Romstad and music is by Bill VanEffen. Kathy Lindley will portray Alice and Jeanne LeCaptain will be Mr. Rabbit.

A second portion of the show is entitled, "This Is It," and has a variety of tap, ballet, modern jazz and musical comedy dancing.

Jack Carlson, former Escanaba High School football and basketball player, has been named head football coach at Omro, Wis., where he served last year as assistant basketball mentor. Carlson, who was a halfback at Northland College, coached basketball at Ashland DePauw for three years before shifting to Omro, near Oshkosh.

Upper Peninsula high school track and field athletes continue to improve at an almost unbelievable rate. It is almost impossible to realize the tremendous strides made in the sport in the region in the past decade. Including the seven new records established this spring in the finals at Marquette, but not counting the new two mile event, there have been 77 new Upper Peninsula records set in the past eight years.

Records that appeared unbeatable just 10 years ago have been wiped out repeatedly as Upper Peninsula athletes continue to improve on their techniques and grow bigger and stronger. A quick check of the record book reveals that of all the Upper Peninsula track records listed 10 years ago, only three still stand in Class A-B, one in Class C and four in Class D.

Just taking a random event, it is easy to trace the steady improvement of the Upper Peninsula athletes in recent years. In the Class A-B pole vault, Escanaba's John Prokos (current junior high track coach) owned the U. P. record of 11 feet 7 inches set in 1951 until the late Mike Stenace of Holy Name snapped it with a height of 11-8 1/2 in 1960. Then Quentin Minkin of Ironwood raised it to 11-11 1/2 in 1963. In 1965 Dick McCarthy of Kingsford boosted the height to 12 feet. Dennis Daugherty of Sault Ste Marie erased that standard last year with a vault of 12-5 1/2.

Felch fashioned its second straight victory in the Wishigan baseball league, trimming Wallace, 14-2, as Jim Edberg scattered six hits and fanned 18 batters. Dick Lindholm led the Rangers at the plate with three singles and a double. Stephenson made it three straight triumphs for the season by beating Menominee, 8-6. Beaver, also unbeaten in three starts, nipped Daggett, 2-0.

Escanaba archers earned top honors in several classes in Silver Hawk Archery Club's field target tournament held at Twin Falls near Iron Mountain. Bill Premo led the men's bare bow Class C shooters with a 610 score and Nancy Magnuson placed the women's free style Class C with a 514. Doris Peck topped the women's bare bow Class D with 321 and Pat Peck the girls Class C with 149.

Tigers Boost Lead With Two Victories Over Kansas City

KANSAS CITY (AP)—It was a real ballplayer's brawl—nobody landed a good punch and I was laughing my sides off," said ex-umpire Ed Hurley in describing the Detroit-Kansas City free-for-all Tuesday night.

Hurley, now traveling secretary for the A's, viewed the wild eight-minute battle from the press box. Admittedly, the battle had its comic aspects. But closer inspection in the clubhouse disclosed this one was a bit rougher than most baseball brawls.

Jack Aker, Kansas City relief pitcher, had three nasty welts on the side of his face. Hank Aguirre, Detroit pitcher, said the back of his neck was sore "where somebody sneaked up and hit me." Chuck Dobson, Kansas City pitcher, was spiked on the thigh. No one else would admit injury.

Aker, Aguirre and Dobson were on the bench when the trouble started on the field in the seventh inning of the second game of a doubleheader won by Detroit's American League leaders, 11-1 and 7-1.

Kansas City pitcher Blue Moon Odom sailed a pitch over the head of Detroit second baseman Dick McAuliffe, who had stolen home against Odom during a six-run Detroit fourth inning. Odom and McAuliffe exchanged sharp words before and after McAuliffe grounded out. Neither would repeat what was said, but McAuliffe was emphatic on one point.

"It's bush to throw at a guy's head like he did," McAuliffe said.

"(Campy) Campaneris steals against us and we don't throw at his head. If Alvin Dark (A's manager) tells his pitchers to do that he ought to get out of baseball. If he can't stand to lose, he ought to get out."

Mayo Smith, Detroit manager, said "Odom was throwing at him, no doubt about it," but he didn't fix the responsibility on Dark.

The brawl was kindled when McAuliffe and Odom went after each other, starting the fight that eventually matched Aguirre and Ossie Chavarria in a pileup in rightfield. A garbage was showered on the field by the fans after the battle was brought under control.

"The umpires were right in not ejecting anyone," Smith said.

While the Tigers were laughing and kidding each other in the clubhouse, the A's were grim and tight-lipped.

"You can't blame anyone," Dark said. "They are fighting for the pennant and my boys are fighting to win ball games. My boys told me Aguirre hit Ossie Chavarria from behind and that set it off."

In the eighth inning, Detroit catcher Bill Freehan was hit in the side by an Odom pitch, but quickly shouted to manager Smith "It was my fault," before trotting to first. Dark then replaced Odom.

"That was a fine thing Freehan did," Dark said. "If he hadn't hollered what he did, we might have had a fight nobody could stop."

The double victory put the Tigers two games up on second-place Chicago.

In the first game, Earl Wilson joined in Detroit's 14-hit barrage with his second home run of the season.

Joe Sparna came on for the nightcap and threw a six-hitter as the Tigers won their fourth in a row.

The 21-hit attack was highlighted in the nightcap by a sixrun fourth inning. Don Wert doubled in two runs and Mickey Stanley singled in two. McAuliffe walked to force in another run and later he stole home.

In the opener, Norm Cash socked his fifth homer in the eighth inning with a man on base. Then Wilson crashed his homer.

Bill Heath and Jim Northrup knocked in three runs each as the Tigers bombed Lew Krausse and Chuck Dobson in the first game.

Detroit winds up the four-game series tonight by putting Mickey Lolich (5-6) on the mound against Paul Lindblad (3-0).

Pirates Find Out

Mets Are Tough To Beat In Extra Inning Battles

By The Associated Press

Face it — the Pittsburgh Pirates did — the New York Mets are not pussies when it comes to extra inning games.

The lowly Mets took the field for a doubleheader in Pittsburgh Tuesday night without having scored a run in 18 innings.

They ran this string to 27 before winning the first game 1-0 in 10 innings and then came right back to take the nightcap 3-2, also in 10 innings, giving them a 6-0 record in extra inning games this season.

The loser both times — Elroy Face.

Houston beat St. Louis, Cincinnati edged San Francisco and Atlanta edged Los Angeles, each by a 3-2 score, and Philadelphia beat the Chicago Cubs 8-6 and 9-8 in other National League action.

The American League, Detroit clobbered Kansas City 11-1 and 7-1; the New York Yankees downed Washington 7-1; Cleveland and Minnesota split, Cleveland winning the first game 6-4 in 10 innings and losing the nightcap 7-1, and Baltimore trounced California twice, 16-4 and 11-1.

"The boys seem to play better when the games are closer and longer," said Mets' Manager Wes Westrum.

For Face, who had started the night with a 4-0 record, they were too close and too long.

The veteran relief ace took over in each game after the starting pitcher had been lifted for a pinch hitter in the ninth inning.

In the first game he gave up a single to Tommy Davis, a single to Jerry Buchek, which moved Davis to third, and Ken Boyer's sacrifice fly. He was greeted by Ron Swoboda's home run in the nightcap.

Swoboda tripled home the Mets' first run in the second inning and scored the second one in the fourth when he doubled and raced all the way home after the ball slipped away from center fielder Matty Alou.

Blefary Uses Light Bat To Find Homerun Range; Baltimore Sweeps Pair

By The Associated Press

Curt Blefary, whose home run hitting collapsed in May under a heavy pile of lumber, has lightened his load in June and now he's bustin' out all over.

The big left-fielder hammered three home runs, including his second grand slam of the season, and drove in seven runs in Baltimore's 16-4 first game victory over California in a twilight doubleheader Tuesday.

He also singled home two runs and hit a sacrifice fly for another in the second game triumph.

"I narrowed a 30-ounce bat from Vic Roznovsky," Blefary explained after hitting his first homers since May 10. "I had been using a 36-ounce, but with the lighter bat I was able to whp through a lot better."

Everyone joined in Detroit's 21-hit barrage at Kansas City where the league-leading Tigers crushed the A's 11-1 and 7-1 in a two-night doubleheader.

Harmon Killebrew also unloaded, slamming a home run in each game as the Minnesota Twins split another two-nighter, losing the first 6-4 to Cleveland in 10 innings before winning 7-1.

In other American League games, New York bombed Washington 7-1 and the Chicago White Sox stopped Boston 5-3.

In the National League, Philadelphia swept a pair from Chicago 8-6 and 9-8; the New York Mets surprised Pittsburgh twice in 10 innings, 1-0 and 3-2, and Cincinnati beat San Francisco, Atlanta tumbled Los Angeles and Houston defeated St. Louis, all by 3-2 scores.

Blefary, who beat out much-heralded Mike Epstein for the left-field job by hitting five homers in the Orioles' first 16 games, had only six homers entering the doubleheader.

"I went home run crazy earlier this year, trying to hit everything out of the park," he said, "and I got fouled up. But I think I stay with this bat for a while as long as it's working like that."

The Orioles clobbered seven Angel pitchers for 18 hits, making rookie Bill Dillman's third victory without a loss an easy matter.

Tom Phoebus, 5-1, who had his scoreless streak snapped at 31 innings by his own throwing error, chipped in with a run-scoring single and a home run as he breezed in the second game. Brooks Robinson also homered.

The Tigers, increasing their lead over the White Sox to two games, did some of their swinging with fists in a free-for-all that emptied both benches in the seventh inning of the second game.

It started when one of John "Blue Moon" Odom's pitches sailed over the head of Detroit's Dick McAuliffe and the two closed in on each other. Both benches rushed in and Ossie Chavarria of the A's and Hank Aguirre of the Tigers exchanged blows and it took eight minutes to restore order.

At bat, first-game winner Earl Wilson, 8-4, joined in a 14-hit attack with a homer. Norm Cash, who also homered, Bill Heath and Jim Northrup each knocked in three runs.

Joe Sparna, 6-0, was the recipient of the Tigers' second-game six-run eruption in his fourth inning as Don Wert and Mickey Stanley each drove in two runs and McAuliffe later stole home.

Killebrew's first homer in the ninth inning of the Twins' opener preceded a two-run blow by Bob Allison that climaxed a three-run, game-tying rally. But it went for naught as pinch hitter Fred Whitfield connected off reliever Jim Perry with one on in the first extra inning.

Killebrew's 14th homer of the season came in the third inning of the nightcap and his two-run single in the fifth ignited a five-run burst.

Dave Boswell coasted to the victory with a five-hitter.

Steve Whitaker stroked a three-run shot in the first inning that started the Yankees, and Mel Stottlemyre to victory.

Charley Smith also homered for New York.

Tommy Agee had some trouble connecting, but patience paid off when he slapped a two-out, two-run tie-breaking single in the seventh inning for his White Sox. Agee struck out his first three times at bat.

Cooks Asks To Join Waubung Baseball Loop

Officials of the Waubung baseball league will meet Thursday night in Escanaba to consider an application for membership from Cooks.

Managers of teams from Escanaba, Powers, Manistique and Schaffer, who make up the league's board of directors, will act on the bid.

The league, for players of American Legion baseball age, will open the season with two games Sunday. If Cooks is admitted to the loop the team will draw a bye Sunday and the league schedule will be redrawn to include the new team.

The Waubung League was inactive last summer because of a lack of teams in the area.

Thursday's meeting will be held at the Daily Press office starting at 7:30 p. m.

Baseball Team Owners Stock Bins With Player Talent In June Draft

NEW YORK (AP) — The business of stocking big league player bins with new talent from the amateur ranks continues today as the baseball owners conclude their annual June selections from the free agent player pool.

Players who have been selected in previous drafts but who have not signed pro contracts will be the special targets in the secondary phase of the meetings.

A total of 614 players was drafted by the 20 big league clubs and their farms in Tuesday's regular phase of new talent.

In the 18th round of the Class A selection they got around to George Bernard Shaw, of Panola, Tex., Junior College, a right-handed pitcher picked by a Houston farm club.

In the first free agent draft in 1965, 813 players were drafted. Last year's June meeting resulted in 833 selections.

Romney Urges Blackout Area Relighted Joint Action

LANSING (AP) — Michigan Gov. George Romney has recommended the United States continue to work multilaterally to achieve an immediate cessation of hostilities between Israel and the Arab states.

Romney, an undeclared candidate for the 1968 Republican presidential nomination, described the Middle East conflict as "tragic."

"The breakdown of peace in the Middle East demonstrates the failure of the nation's states in the middle 20th Century to maintain stable and progressive relations among themselves," he said.

"It underscores the huge difficulties of the United Nations in its peace-keeping role. It suggests the precariousness of assuming either the role of the global policeman on the one hand, or of global troublemaker on the other."

"The fighting should come to a stop immediately," he said, "before more destruction occurs, more hatreds are inflamed, and before the danger of major East-West confrontation increases."

The governor said the U. S. should maintain its position in support of political independence and territorial integrity for all nations in the Middle East.

More people get more news from newspapers than all other sources combined.

NEW YORK (AP) — Power flowed normally today through the four-state area hit by a massive failure but residents were faced with the prospect that a hot summer could increase chances for a recurrence of the blackout.

Chairman Lee White of the Federal Power Commission said that the area of New Jersey, Delaware, and parts of Pennsylvania and Maryland "must be extremely cautious this summer."

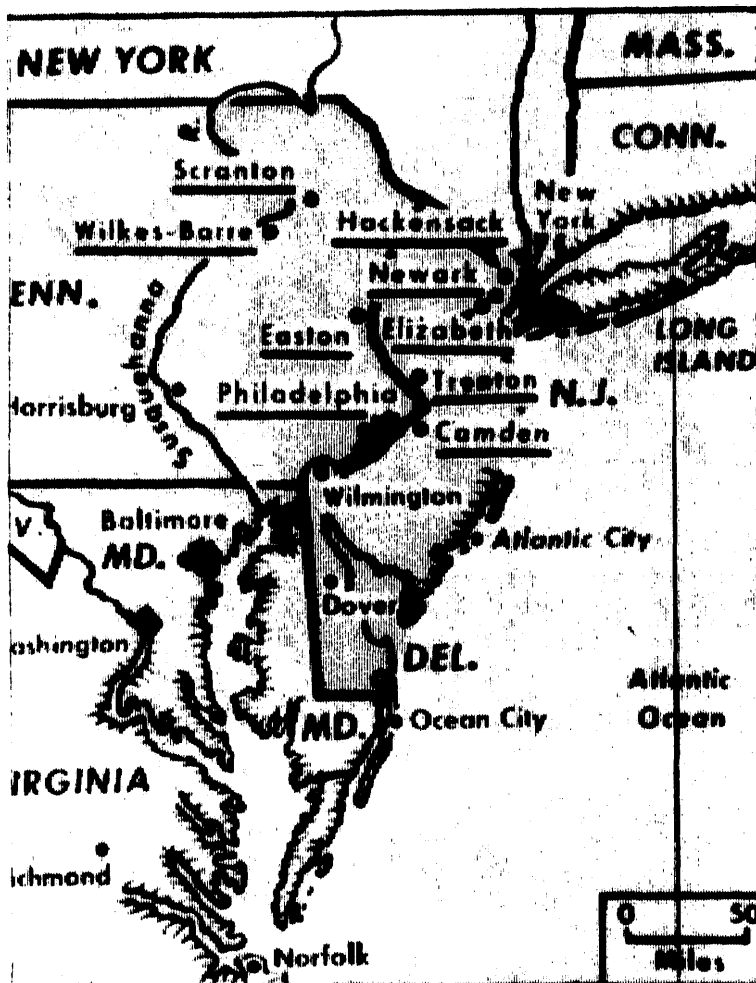

The reserve capacity of the affected region, White said, is "not all that it should be." He added the blackout Monday night might have been averted had two power plants now under construction been in operation.

White declined to predict the possibility of another occurrence, saying at one point he did not know "how rough the summer was going to be"—an allusion to the use of air conditioners which draw heavy current loads.

He said he would rather not speculate on a suggestion that the failure might have been caused by many of the 12 million people in the area turning on their air conditioners at once. But he said that could be a plausible hypothesis.

The blackout caused incalculable losses and profits to businesses and industries. Hundreds of thousands of workers were given the day off with pay while others were called in to work overtime.

Like whales, porpoises are descended from land animals.

Negro Named Deputy Warden At Marquette

LANSING (AP) — Robert Brown Jr. has been named assistant deputy warden of the Marquette branch prison, becoming Michigan's first Negro deputy warden. State Corrections Director Gus Harrison said today.

Brown, 31, who also is the first Negro to be employed by the Marquette Prison, replaces Perry M. Johnson, who transferred to Southern Michigan Prison at Jackson in February as a deputy warden.

Brown, a Lansing native and a graduate of Michigan State University, has served in the Department of Corrections since October, 1960, as a counselor and parole officer.

The United Nations has five official languages — Chinese, English, French, Russian and Spanish.
